Passionate web developer with 2 years of experience as freelancer. Eager to join a company to start working with a competent team as passionate as me to design and develop as best as we can, and also to solve any problem that comes our way. As a freelancer I helped people around the world to re-design his website and fix small design or code mistakes remotely. Also as personal projects to train I built multiple websites from scratch with responsive design & clean code and took different courses to improve my design and coding skills to not just stick what i've learnt during studies & master technologies as best as I could.

Im looking to join a company to stop working as a freelancer and start building things with a team and start new projects.
